

DID YOU KNOW...

On average, young raccoons will stay with their mom for one year before they are on their own.

FOUND A BABY RACCOON ALONE?

Call your local wildlife hospital if:

- it has been in a cat or dog's mouth
- there is a deceased parent nearby
- it is covered in fly eggs or maggots
- it is bleeding or has a broken bone

It is normal for moms to leave their babies for extended periods of time while they look for food.

If the raccoon is healthy, there are ways to reunite the baby with mom. Contact your local wildlife hospital for advice.

South Florida
WILDLIFE CENTER